help decide which channel actually drove the results. Example: A fashion brand finds through attribution that most buyers first discovered them via a TikTok influencer — even though the final click came from Google Search. They then shift budget to TikTok. Source: Google Analytics Help centre (2024). ~~Learn~~ Attribution modelling. support.google.com/analytics.

References

1. Evans, J.R. (2019). Business Analytics: Methods, Models and Decisions (3rd ed.). Pearson Education.
2. Investopedia (2024). Various entries. Retrieved from www.~~invested~~ investopedia.com.
3. Hubspot (2024). Marketing Statistics & Trends. Retrieved from www.Hubspot.com.
4. Google Analytics Help Centre (2024). Conversions, ROAS and Bounce Rate. Retrieved from support.google.com/analytics
5. McKinsey and Company (2023). The data-driven enterprise of 2025. Retrieved from www.mckinsey.com
6. Harvard Business Review (2022). Use Data to Accelerate Your Business Strategy. Retrieved from hbr.org
7. Gartner Glossary (2024). BI, Descriptive and Prescriptive Analytics. Retrieved from www.gartner.com